

Living Green

The American Jewish World will publish a special section in the March 14 edition, focusing on living life with respect for the natural world.

Reach customers in the Jewish community who are making an effort to live a more sustainable lifestyle, and who are committed to supporting local businesses that are doing the same.

The AJW's Living Green special section is a prime marketing opportunity for food co-ops and local food producers, remodeling contractors, landscapers, businesses using alternative energy or recycled materials, vegetarian restaurants, and anyone looking to make the Earth a better place.

Deadline for ad space reservations in the March 14 Living Green special section is 12 p.m. Wednesday, March 5.
